

FACULTY

HOWARD BARNEBEY, MD, brought his expertise to the northwest over two decades ago along with his commitment to the protection and preservation of the precious gift of sight. He treats thousands of glaucoma and cataract patients each year, providing complete individual focus to each patient. He remains consistent in his mission to educate and advance medical innovation and expand biomedical eye research, implementing the finest care possible to improve the quality of life in his patients.

MURRAY FINGERET, OD, is chief of the optometry section, Department of Veterans Affairs, New York Harbor Health Center, Brooklyn, St. Albans Campus, and he is also executive vice president of the Optometric Glaucoma Society, chair of the Glaucoma Diplomate of the AAO, and a board member of The Glaucoma Foundation. The February 2015 edition of Primary Care Optometry News profiles Dr. Fingeret as a pioneer of optometric glaucoma care and credits him with advancing glaucoma treatment in optometry.

“Drs. Barnebey and Fingeret present an excellent CE program and the delightful ambiance of the Willows Lodge keeps this meeting on my CE calendar.”
