

ONE OF THE LONGEST RUNNING
HIGH SCHOOL MUSIC FESTIVALS IN THE U.S.

Music at Pacific University

The Department of Music is accredited by the National Association of Schools of Music (NASM), and has offered courses since 1883, open to students of all majors. Degree offerings in music are Bachelor of Arts in Music, Music Education, Music with Performance Emphasis, Music Therapy, and a Minor in Music. In order to fulfill the liberal arts ideal, ensembles are open to all students. They include the University Chamber Singers, Concert Choir, Symphonic Band, Jazz Band, Orchestra, as well as various chamber ensembles. Private lessons are taught by highly qualified instructors, and are available to all students on piano, voice, and all standard band and orchestral instruments.

About Pacific University

Founded in 1849, Pacific University is known for providing a variety of options for internships, study abroad, research, community involvement, athletics and co-curricular activities. With 3,800 students enrolled in undergraduate and graduate programs, the University is small enough for students to get involved, but large enough so that students working together can have a meaningful impact. Whether enrolled in the undergraduate College of Arts and Sciences or the Colleges of Education, Health Professions, or Optometry, Pacific students learn to apply their academic work to their professional, community, and social interests.

FESTIVAL HISTORY

Music in May was founded in 1948 at Pacific University by Richard A. Greenfield to encourage the development of string music in the public schools of the Pacific Northwest. Band and choir were added at the suggestion of high school music directors, who saw in the festival a means of recognizing students whose service to their particular schools was especially noteworthy.

Each year the number of nominees for places at Music in May far exceeds the number who can be accepted. Housing limitations and the natural requirements of each ensemble result in over 500 participants each year, approximately 300 in the choir, 170 in the band and 80 in the orchestra.

Participants' achievements in three days, under distinguished guest conductors culminating in the Saturday afternoon concert, represent not only their own efforts, but those of approximately 150 high school directors who have developed their students' talents and recommended them for Music in May.
